A Foreword

AFTER due deliberation it has been decided to follow the example set by the staff of '27 and devote the spring issue of "The Huttlesonian" to the Seniors. Long may they live!

There are several new features in the magazine which are worthy of note. First, there was great difficulty in procuring for this issue a cover fine enough to take the place of the one which has graced the paper for a number of years. We feel that the blue and gold make a suitable, as well as an attractive cover, and hope that it will be favorably received.

A history has been compiled by Harold Dutton for the instruction of the lower classes, while Astrid Phillips and Joe Perry have consulted the oracle to learn the future of the members of the class.

The reader will, also, find a directory of the class (with comments). The class officers have graciously permitted us the use of their pictures. To show our appreciation we have given them a place of honor in the front of the book.

With this short introduction we leave the fate of the magazine in your hands.

History of the Class of 1928

GRADUALLY the vociferous tribute subsided and the multitude slowly dispersed. The last rays of the setting sun flickered on the walls of the auditorium. The cause of the tumult? Gather around me and I will elucidate. Harken unto me and I will reveal to you the Chronicles of the Class of 1928.

After several weeks of trying experiences in the process of becoming acquainted, the first class election was held. The honored ones, into whose hands the destiny of the Freshman class passed, were Miriam Owen, chosen President, Eunice Hirst, her assistant, "At" Philips, scribe, and "Bill" Kelly, in whom was trusted the monetary duties.

A debating society, the first at F. H. S., was formed by the class orators. This proved to be very popular and led to the formation of the present club. The fitting close to the debates came with the defeat of a picked Senior team, who thought their powers of oratory were greater than that of the lowly "freshies."

When the vaudeville show for the benefit of the school library was presented, the audience found that the majority of the actors came from Room 7.

Led by Cherry, athletically inclined boys played baseball, football, and basketball. Others pounded the cinders or practiced with the field event men. In a duel meet with the "frosh" across the river, the blue yearlings came out winners, thereby upholding the honor of the school.

Two representatives from the class held positions on "The Huttlestonian" staff in the advertising department.

The traffic squad, in its maiden year, could not have been complete without the assistance of some members of the auspicious class of '28.

In June we said adieu to the pedagogue of Room 7, Mr. Staples, and went forth for a far too short intermission.

* * * * *

Aided by the graduating class of Mattapoisett Junior High, 108 Sophomores returned to add more knowledge to their already large store. Led by the versatile athlete and scholar, Professor Joseph Perry, the addition from the "herring" town strengthened both the athletic and scholastic units of the class.

When the smoke from the polls at the class election had cleared, "Walt" Kuechler found himself in the Presidential chair. "Waddy"

THE HUTTLESTONIAN

Aiken, from the wild regions of Egypt Lane, sat contentedly "on the shelf." In a quite unorthodox manner, it was "Russ" who held the purse strings and "Connie" who wielded the pen.

Football claimed attention with Aiken, Beal, Terhune, "Russ" and Rocha attaining varsity rating.

"Joe" Rocha, "Mort" Pierce, Aiken, and Terhune, were the sophs who joined the hoopsters.

In the interclass track meet we were second only to the Seniors. Although we missed Cherry, a gala of new stars appeared including the class president, who proved to be a middle distance runner.

"Russ" Macomber and Rocha earned positions on the nine.

For two months we were excused from classes, and this vacation seemed longer than the one of the previous year.

* * * * *

On arriving at school in September, we found a new coach in the personage of "Del" Borah. Despite newspaper statements to the contrary, he quickly became a general favorite.

During the summer "Al" Bates and Priscilla Alden won great honors; the former winning Junior Boys' and the latter the Women's tennis championships in greater New Bedford.

Kuechler, like all good presidents, was re-elected in the class election. "Russ" was promoted to the vice presidency. Big Eddie Wlodyka, more commonly known as "Pollock," "Hunyak" (or what have you?) decided to join our class. We respected his decision so much that he was chosen secretary. Edith Young was elected treasurer.

The Traffic Squad and Student Council had the assistance of many Juniors.

Five Juniors labored with the Huttlestonian Staff. Other members contributed masterpieces of American Literature. Undoubtly Marjorie Howe will someday become one of the greatest American poets.

Harold Macomber and Lawrence "Pop" McGowan joined our class with "Eddie." These two, with Rocha, Beal, Terhune, Aiken and "Russ" Macomber formed the nucleus of the Bristol County Pigskin Champions, bringing home the bacon for the fifth straight year. Harold Macomber, Aiken and Wlodyka were chosen for the Bristol County team. "Mac" led in scoring. He was unanimously elected captain for '27.

The "Big Three" along with Aiken, Rocha, Hawes, and Pierce were hoopsters, "Pop" being chosen for the '27-28 season's captaincy.

Fairhaven's trio starred on the track and could have won the county championship alone. "Eddie" set records in the weight events. "Joe" Perry and "Scoop" Alden also starred. "Pop" received the captain's crown.

The "Mac" brothers, Rocha, and "Pollock" tossed the horsehide around. "Rus" was given the leadership for the next season.

June and Junior day with its blue and gold ribbons and Senior seats in the Assembly Hall, came and departed.

The class of '27 passed into the wide world. This event brought us the realization of our dreams—Seniors at last!

Once upon a time all the Seniors sat in Room 4. But a class of seventy members was far too large so our Senior year found us divided into Rooms 4, 5, 8, and 9.

Soon after the termination of summer recess, the wildest election in the history of the school was held. When the dust of battle had settled, "Joe" Perry found himself at the head of the class, with "Babe" O'Leary ready to step into his shoes. Mary Luiz and "Mort" Pierce, from the sticks, were Treasurer and Secretary.

The B. A. A. chose the "Mac" brothers and Aiken to guide the organization.

Football resulted in the sixth successive County Championship. Captain "Mac", injured in the opening game, was unable to carry the ball for the remainder of the season. His generalship was prominent at all times and, considering the fact that he had been the star for previous years, and was now unable to take an active part on the field, his spirit was remarkable. Wlodyka, after a series of injuries, finished his football career creditably. Rocha, Aiken, "Russ" Macomber, "Pop" and Alden also were regulars. "Eddie," Aiken, "Pop" and "Russ" Macomber were Bristol County choices. Bates managed the team.

Capt. "Pop" McGowan, Pierce, Rocha, and Hawes, were the Senior hoopsters, with "Russ" as manager.

For the first time in the history of the school a track team brought home the bacon in the state meet. By the way — "Pollock" set up a new record in the shot put. McGowan captained the track team. Other Senior point winners in the state meet were H. Macomber, winner of the dash, Kuechler, second in 600, and Perry, fourth in the dash. McGowan and Perry were on the relay team which finished third. Bates was elected manager.

A Senior Dance committee, with Wlodyka as chairman, ran two very successful dances. (Also the floor had, in some mysterious manner, become suitable for dancing!) Another dance was planned for May.

Ernest Roberts leads the traffic squad, and "Art" Coe, Edith Mitchell and Betty Hatfield are lieutenants. Several other Seniors are on the squad.

Our worthy President heads the Student Council.

"Come Out of the Kitchen," presented by the Seniors at the Town Hall, February 21, would have put a professional stock company to shame. The credit goes to Miss Margaret Siebert, class advisor, who directed the play. "At" Philips, the leading lady, must be part Irish!

The Honor Society, formed in our Junior year, included in its members eight Juniors. The four highest who became officers this year were "Dot" Ransom, Miriam Owen, Dolores Rousseau, and Edith Mitchell.

The baseball club has the assistance of Capt. "Russ" Macomber, Pierce, Harold Macomber and Rocha.

To enumerate all the teachers who have had the pleasure (or otherwise) of instructing us would be impossible, so we'll mention only those who had to endure the home room trials. Mr. Staples held the reins in the first year. (At least there was one person who would instruct us about the building correctly.) Miss Muzzey and Mr. Parkinson divided the task in the second year. (To Mr. Parkinson and Room 17 goes the credit for starting the motion picture machine fund.) Miss Russell guided us during the Junior year. For the last year Miss Margaret Siebert, wise from guiding several other Senior classes, gave us her valuable and greatly appreciated services. The Principal should be remembered as one of the greatest assets to the class for the entire four years, and we are very grateful to our benefactor, Mr. Dickey.

At a class meeting in the Spring the President was elected Class Prophet and the Undersigned Historian.

HAROLD B. DUTTON, JR.

June Glow

Dancing raindrops, morning dew,
Golden sunbeams shining thro',
Garlands of flowers wafting perfume,
The air is atune with windharps of June.
Enchanting chords sound thro' the trees,
Of love they sing in many keys.

HELEN MARTIN, '28

A Picture

Waves — emerald, turquoise,
Beat upon the sand,
Bearing high on their crests treasures of the sea.

Spray — clear, sparkling
Flung high in the air as the waves beat on the rocks
Cascading back into the blue in a thousand tiny drops.

EDITH MITCHELL, '28

My College Expectations

BY MIRIAM I. OWEN, '28

NOW that my College is chosen, I am beginning to look forward to my work, my play, and my associations for the coming year.

I know that hard work is in store for me, but it will be satisfying work and, I trust, fruitful work, too. I anticipate some play with my work, having fun and various outside activities to season it and make my college life wholesome and interesting. My studies I expect to come first and, while I have my fun and plan to enter into it whole-heartedly, I will keep before me the main object of my course. All work and no play will make a very unbalanced person, while all play and no work would breed weakness and inefficiency. Both of these are abnormal and unnatural. We all want to have a serious purpose and a goal so strongly fixed that outside affairs cannot turn us aside in our efforts.

My main object in college is to discover myself, my dominant desires, aptitudes and tendencies. I must find my place and then keep growing. Overdevelopment in any one line is not wise, but rather to round out the personality, seeking a broad education as a preparation for any type of usefulness.

I shall meet many students, and all of them different in their background of rearing and training. I hope to learn to understand folks and to judge character, and to be able to adapt myself to others. I must learn to give and take, to respect others, and so deal with them as to succeed in my work in the years ahead. I shall acquire some tactfulness, and if I achieve this power and virtue, I will have made a good start toward handling individuals when my college days are over.

But most important of all will be to gain the ability to think. My test-books are but tools, my class work will be mental gymnastics, the knowledge gained will lend power, the exercise of judgment will develop more judgment, and all in all I expect to gain the power of sensible thinking. If I succeed here, I shall have made a good start for success in the years ahead. Should not the rubbing of mind on mind brighten both?

All of my college experiences should be productive of culture which after all, is the real test of being educated. Culture means the formation of good taste, a quality of spirit and life. It means a generous outlook and a friendly helpfulness. All our learning is poor indeed if this is neglected. Let me learn to choose that which is excellent, which fosters greater and finer living. Responding to the best and highest, as to seek the completing of character and abilities, I shall look forward to a happy life stretching out before me. I trust I shall be prepared to live so as to be happy myself and most useful to others.

The truth of President Lincoln's statement seems to portray the thought of this essay: "I will study and get ready, and some day my chance will come."

Prophecy of the Class of 1928

SAD, I was, and lonely, as I strolled down the main street of my old home town. Here it was that I had gone to the old F. H. S., now so famous for its coaches. Everything around me had been changed since I had walked for the first time down that street. The Union Street Railway was no longer in operation, instead aeroplanes were carrying passengers overhead.

I neared the centre. What was that familiar sign? "The Princess." Now what was that? Ah! I remembered, a theatre. What is that poster? "Take a Chance day. Novel pictures." Having nothing else to do, I decided to enter. I paid the small fee, and took a seat. Immediately, as I was the only one there, the show began.

The first picture was entitled "Review of the Class of 1928 of Fairhaven High School." At once my drowsiness left me and I sat up and took notice.

There flashed on the screen a tall, blond headed gentleman, gravely talking with the president. "Pop" McGowan, it was labeled, leading bass in the Metropolitan Opera Company. Why. He was president of the F. H. S. Glee Club in 1928.

The second scene was from Harold Dutton's new musical comedy "The Gypsy Queen, "Lil" Teixeira is the premiere danseuse. Harold always was fond of the stage. He is incomparable, and said to be a combination of the old timers, Flo Ziegfield and George White.

This flash shows our old huntsman "Walt" Kuechler, just returning from an aeroplane hunting trip in Antartica, the newly developed region, discovered by Byrd in 1928. We see he is accompanied by his young bride, a familiar looking person.

Now we see the interior of a school. "Dot" Ransom and Rose Walsh come into view. They are teaching Latin and French respectively.

I see by the next bit of news that after a strenuous winter engaged in social work, Edith Young Horne is going to spend the summer in Maine with her husband.

Now I see the aeroplane station at New Bedford. Marie and Dolores are stepping from the trans-atlantic Aeroplane from Paris, where they run a select boarding school. The child with them is Ronald Horne, Junior, who is to accompany his parents on their vacation in Maine.

Why, here's a scene from the Orient. Yes, it's Miriam Owen. Yes, she is doing missionary work in Cherry-Hung, in Manchuria. They say that she is the idol of the Chinese nation.

Look what's showing now! Terhune and Bates have just signed a contract for a week's engagement at the State Theatre in Chicago. Their vaudeville team has become world famous. Bill's dancing and Al's jokes and melodious laugh will remain forever in the minds of American theatregoers.

This scene was taken in a court room. The prosecuting attorney looks familiar, it's Walter Henshaw the famous criminal lawyer. He has become famous in the few years he has been at the bar. His debating at High School gave him a good start.

This picture shows the "Hunyak." "Eddie" has just returned from the Olympic Games. He is still considered the greatest weight man in the world. "Eddie" has accepted a position as Vice-President of the Harbor View Clam and Quauhog Company.

"New Bedford, Mass.," reads the next flash. "Russ" Macomber is now manager of the woman's millinery dept. of Steiger Dudgeon. He was offered a vice presidency but preferred to work his way up.

The next scene is an interview with the leading man in "Don Juan," our old friend Stanley Quinn. The photographer went behind the stage to see him after the play. On inquiring he found that Stanley had overcome his bashfulness by taking a correspondence course in "Love Making."

"Mattapoissett, Mass.," I read. There's old lanky "Mort" Pierce. His inventions in radio, such as broadcasting odors etc., have made his name famous and also his pocketbook.

Here we are at the Hatfield Camp for Underweight Girls. That must be Betty on the brown horse. Yes, I can see her dimples now. Mary O'Leary is athletic coach at the camp.

"Altho' Paderweski is going to quit a public life, reads this title, his going will not be noticed since Helen Gammans has started playing in public. In many of her concerts she has played with Arthur Coe the famous cornetist."

"Madison Square Garden, New York." Ah! a circus scene. Yes, it seems that Doris Maker's future is assured. She is now the fat lady in Bingling Son's Circus. Marjorie Howe is also in the same circus. Her snake charming act is well known.

From the following scenes I should judge that "Ben" Flathers upholds the naval proverb of a girl in every port. His chief attraction still is Eleanor, however. There they go together! Eleanor has just finished teaching a course in Domestic Science at the White House.

Here's someone who has won more bridge prizes than anyone else in the world. Why, it's Connie Dudgeon. The prizes all go in her hope chest, she tells the photographer. She is living at home, and has an active interest in Steiger Dudgeon.

Who is this attractive young lady? Sure enough it's Eunice Hirst the buyer for a large store in New York. She has just returned from Paris, where she picked out all the spring styles for the women of America.

There's a picture of a baseball training field. And there's Joe Rocha! I knew that he had turned professional, but didn't know that he owned and managed the World Champion team.

Here is a large office in a New York skyscraper. There's Warren Aiken a prominent stock broker on Wall Street. He is one of the keenest business men in America. He is still very active in sports, however, and takes in all New Bedford — Fairhaven Football games.

The scene shifts to Palm Beach, where we see Edith Mitchell and her husband sunning themselves on the beach. Edith is editor of a well known magazine, but is resting now from overwork.

Whose familiar face is that smiling at the camera? Why, it's "Mac"! He's New York's most famous undertaker. His expression well suits his profession. At his side is his chief gravedigger, Burton Alden. He was a member of the Class of 1928, wasn't he?

Here's a hospital. Is some one in the class ill? No, there's Alletta Allen and Bernice Goodwin, in nurses' uniforms. All the nurses and patients are on the lawn watching the antics of the world famous clown, Walter Chase.

Here's a studio in Greenwich Village. Marion Morse and Dorothy Broadbent are posing for Robert Burrel, the well known magazine cover illustrator.

Two old classmates meet in the next piece of information. They are "Eddie" Hawes and Lester Durfee, two bridge experts. The latter is bridging rivers, the former teeth.

Back to the stage the camera takes us. Louise Fleming is one of the most famous negro impersonators the world has ever known. She began her career in the Class Play.

Another scene from the metropolis, Mattapoissett. It seems that Jennie Eldridge is teaching stenography in the University of Mattapoissett. Ernest Roberts is dean, and, as usual, keeps law and order among the pupils.

Back to a N. Y. office building we go in this flash. How methodical and orderly everything is. We might have guessed, it's Mary Luiz. She is a very successful business woman, having made her influence known in every capital in the world. This surely is a world famous class.

This scene is of more interest to the feminine sex. Louise Greenhalgh runs a beauty parlor in Boston. Helen Martin, the hair curling expert is explaining her new methods to her now.

Now we're in the air. Here are Eva Moody and Helen Stowell the famous aviatrixes. They are giving a course in stunt flying.

What a beautiful display of China. It's Melba Texeira's china shop on Fifth Ave., where she hand paints her wares. Some of her work was sent to the Prince of Wales for approval.

The next three scenes are in Chicago. The first shows Hazel Westgate, a strong speaker for the equal rights of women on ferry boats. Her motto is "sink or swim."

The second is Alfred Amaral, the proprietor of the "Dirty Apron Restaurant." They say he has missed murder sixty times.

And now Carrie Machado and Grace Andrews, the world champion runners, as were snapped on their journey across the continent. They always run in conjunction.

We see by the next scene that Marion Bryant is following in her sister's footsteps. She is secretary to the principal of the Rogers School.

Another school-room. This class was surely bent toward pedagogy. Grace Dupuis is giving a course in memory at Jalappi, Texas. The first principle is "don't forget to remember."

Here are Catherine Flores and Belmira Silva the interior decorators. They have just redecorated Lindbergh's home.

Another instructor, Doris Macomber, who teaches elocution at Simmons College. She taught Elizabeth Taber, the fiery orator, who speaks so forcefully on prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The scene shifts, we now see Mary Silva who has just returned from Paris. She was a member of the U. S. hockey team which won the Olympic championship.

"World famous writer poses for cameraman," we read. It's Astrid Phillips. She has just had a book published which won the Pulitzer Prize. The name is "Things No Woman Has Ever Said." The pages are blank from cover to cover.

"A new champion is acclaimed," is what now attracts our attention. Priscilla Alden has just defeated Helen Wills for the National Woman's championship in tennis. We always said she would succeed in this sport.

This scene is of importance. Lester Winterbottom's success is assured; he has just submitted a plan to the New York Safety Council which enables them to have twice the landing space for commuter's airplanes.

The next flash shows Louise Emin, and her partner Edith Robinson, in the inevitable Chevrolet, selling henna dye. They are doing a rushing business.

This scene shows a big kitchen, with Ruth Ritchie dressed in white. She's a famous dietician.

Last but not least we see Alice Fennesey. She is in the north converting Eskimos. She is as well loved in the North, as is Miriam in the East.

After this scene the lights flashed on, and I saw to my great surprise that I was still the only one in the little building. I pinched myself to see if I was really awake, and, finding that I was, rose and went out into the moon-lit street, accompanied by many pleasant memories.

Class Song

Words by Miriam Owen, '28

Air — “F. H. S. Hail” — Adapted and Harmonized by Anna B. Trowbridge

Hail to this class with its heart so bold,
Hail to its colors, the blue and gold,
Always striving on to the goal,
No matter how heavy the toll.

1-9-2-8, long may thy colors fly,
1-9-2-8, keep e'er thy standards high,
Our loyal faith in thee no one can deny,
Twenty-eight, Fairhaven High.

“Come Out of the Kitchen” a comedy in three acts adapted by A. E. Thomas from the story of the same name by Alice Duer Miller, was presented by the Class of 1928 in the Town Hall on the evening of February the twenty-first.
